Oct. 23 Claire Nolan

As a teacher of English as a Second Language, Claire Nolan tells stories, many of them true, to international students and immigrants. She currently teaches at SUNYA. She has most recently been telling tales at the Emma Treadwell Thacher Nature Center in Berne. Claire can also be seen in area middle schools, high schools and colleges telling the story of Mary Harris Jones (Mother Jones) through the Schenectady Theater for Children Great Minds Series.

Fourth Tuesday every month Sept. – June, 7-9 pm. Doors open for sign up at 6:30. There is usually a 10-minute limit on story length. No reading, just telling, please.

$5.00, students free

New tellers always welcome.
